A CARD.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

In the editorial columns of the DAILY ORE GONIAN of this date the following appears:

But while on the champion question would it not be well for the Bulletin to state specifically whether or not it is true as charged by Watkinds, that the firm of Mitchell & Dolph received a large sum of money as a fee for lobbying through the State Senate certain matters connected with Watkinds admini stration of the Penitentiary and sustaining Watkinds and that, too while a member of the said firm was also a member of the Senate

If you will give this card a place in your columns I will not trouble the Bulletin with a matter personal to myself

It is not true that the firm of Mitchell & Dolph or either member of said firm received a large sum of money, or any money or consideration what ever as a fee for lobbying through the State Senate certain matters connected with the Watkinds ad ministration of the Penitentiary or sustaining Watkinds or for lobbying any matter whatever either when a member of the firm is a member of the Senate or at any other time

I further state that the charge of Mr Wat kinds is purely a fabrication, and is ma liciously false Mr Watkinds will be afforded an opportunity to make his assertion good I court the fullest scrutiny of every official act of my life Respectfully yours

DECISION IN ADMIRALTY, BY JUDGE DEADY

The Hot pur—Suit for wages

U S District Court—District of Oregon

Thursday November 1874

When on a voyage from Glasgow to Buenos Ayres from thence to Portland Or and back to a port in the United Kingdom the cook and steward who is not a seaman is disrated a few days out from B A on a charge of wasting provisions and put before the mast, it amounts to a rescission of the contract by the master and the steward may when he arrives at Portland accept such rescission and claim his discharge but what compensation if any he shall have for his services depends upon the particular circumstances of the case

A contract by a minor to serve as a seaman is a voidable one and may be avoided by such minor at any time before its completion and thereafter he is not bound by it in any manner, neither can he sue upon it for his services but may recover the value of such services allowing for any in jury which the owners may sustain by reason of the avoidance of the contract

Where under the British merchants shipping act of 1854 the duration of a voyage is described in the shipping articles as probably 12 months a seaman signing the articles engages absolutely to make the voyage whether the duration of it be more or less than that period provided the master in good faith endeavors to accomplish the voyage within the time mentioned

DEADY J

The libellants, Thomas M Stewart John Brown, William McMasters Llewelling Grif fiths, Archibald Crawford Charles Freund and John McFarlane on March 10, 1874 signed articles for a voyage on the British barque Hotspur from Glasgow to Buenos Ayres and, or if required, to any port or ports in South America North or South Pacific Australian colonies Indian or China Seas Mauritius, West Indies British North America or States of America until the ship returns to a final port of discharge on the continent of Europe or the United Kingdom, with liberty to call at any port for orders Probable period of engagement twelve months

The vessel arrived at Buenos Ayres on May 23 and left there in ballast, about July 13 for this port where she arrived on October 20

A short time out from Buenos Ayres, the master put Stewart who shipped and served up to that time as cook and steward in irons for three hours and then disrated him and put him before the mast upon a charge of wasting provisions From thenceforth Stewart was made to do sailor's duty on deck and aloft besides being often selected to do drudg ery and disagreeable or unnecessary work about the ship even, sometimes when it was his watch below He was not a seaman, and when aloft was subject to dizziness on account of which his life was in danger

Apart from the charge of "wasting the pro visions" no complaint is made of his conduct either before or after being disrated He has three certificates of discharge from service on British vessels since 1872 in which his capacity and character as Cook and Steward are marked very good His appearance upon the witness stand indicated that he is an intel ligent well behaved and industrious man

At this port libellant demanded his dis charge of the master, and being refused he brought this suit for his discharge and wages

The evidence upon the charge of wasting the provisions is very meagre and unsatisfac tory The master carried the key of the locker and was always present when the stores were weighed out The log book is not produced and it does not appear that any entry of the transaction was ever made therein I am in clined to the opinion that the master in put ting libellant in irons and disrating him acted without sufficient cause and that in sending him before the mast and treating him as he afterwards did, he acted harshly if not cruelly

But admitting that libellant was properly disrated I think he is entitled to his discharge. By disrating him, the master abrogated the contract to serve as cook and steward as far as he is concerned This contract being thus terminated the master ought not to be allowed to hold the libellant to other service against his will True if the libellant desires it he may be bound to keep him on board and return him to the final port of discharge and in such case he might lawfully require libel lant to do such duty on the vessel as would be reasonable under the circumstances But where the person disrated is unwilling to longer remain on board I do not think the master has any power to compel him to re main and serve in a capacity totally different from that in which he engaged The master so far as appears, not intending to restore him to his position as cook and steward, the libel lant is entitled to his discharge

No authority has been cited upon this ques tion but this conclusion seems to follow from the application of general principles to the case

As to the question of wages, I am not clear that the libellant is entitled under the circum stances to recover according to the rate stipu lated in the shipping articles—4 pounds 5 shillings per month Deducting one month's advance and from the remainder one-third of the same will leave about $90 for which sum the libellant must have a decree

Crawford, Brown and Griffith as appears from their testimony and the shipping articles are minors On this ground they now avoid this contract and seek their discharge

This is a voidable contract and may therefore be avoided by these minors at their pleasure Having elected to avoid it it is abrogated and the master has no longer any authority over them or demand upon them by reason of it The result is they are discharged The law of both Great Britain and the United States allows an infant the personal privilege of avoiding such a contract at any stage of the voyage, and the owners must be supposed to have contracted with him on this basis They were to be bound but the infants were at liberty to avoid the agreement 1 Par on Con 262, 3 ed, Vent v Osgood, 19 Pick, 572 Nickerson v Easton 12 Pick 110 Mores v Stevens 2 Pick, 301

Upon avoiding the contract the minor can not sue upon it but is entitled to recover a reasonable compensation for his services as though no such contract had been made Med bury v Watrous 7 Hill, 111 Mores v Stevens supra In ascertaining the value of libellants services, a deduction must be made for any in jury which the owners will suffer by reason of the sudden termination of the contract Par on Con 263 n f, Mores v Stevens supra

Crawford shipped as an able bodied seaman for the wages of 3 pounds 10 shillings per month Griffith and Brown shipped as ordi nary seamen the former for the wages of 3 pounds and the latter 2 pounds per month It appears that the barque is loading with wheat for a port in the United Kingdom The wages out of this port for such a voyage for able bodied seamen is from $30 to $40 per month and for ordinary seamen $20 to $30 Allow ing the vessel five months to return in the owners will have to pay to persons employed to take the place of these libellants in addi tion to the wages paid them, a sum equal to fifty per centum of such wages for that period So far they are directly injured by the avoid ance of this contract under the circumstances stated

Deduct then this sum from each of the libel lants wages for 7½ months and also the one month advance and the remainder is the amount for which they are entitled to recover According to this Crawford is entitled to $70 Griffith $60 and Brown $40

It is objected on the part of the claimant that this Court ought to decline jurisdiction of a suit by a seaman against a foreign vessel unless it be a case of hardship Not admit ting but that this Court in time of peace ought to take jurisdiction of any suit brought by a seaman against a foreign vessel except where otherwise provided by treaty and re ferring to what this Court said upon this sub ject in the Heroine (Aug 18 1874) it is suffi cient in this case to state the fact that unless this Court takes jurisdiction of this libel there will be a failure of justice By avoiding their contracts as they lawfully might do these minors became separated from the vessel in a foreign port and if not allowed to maintain a suit in this Court against her for the compen sation to which they may be entitled they will be without remedy

Freund and McFarlane as well as Stewart Brown and Crawford, also claim that they were discharged on the morning of October 29 because the mate, having by the previous di rection of the master, ordered them to go on the wharf and truck sacks of wheat to the ves sel and they having refused on the ground that such work was not ship's duty said to them with many opprobrious and obscene epithets Don't want you any more, go be low —and ordered the cook not to give them any breakfast A few minutes after this scene the master came out of the cabin the mate in the mean time having told him what had occurred and went ashore The men saw him go off but nothing passed between them The men went ashore in the course of an hour and met the master, who asked them what was the matter They gave him their account of the transaction and said the mate had knocked them off and they had come ashore to get their breakfasts and a place to stay The master replied that the mate had no au thority to knock them off to get back on ship board and they should be fed whether they worked or not The men declined to go and seemed to think they were then at liberty to do as they pleased about the matter The master then asked them to go with him to the British Consul's They replied as if they might meet him there but did not. On the follow ing Friday evening they went aboard and got their chests and left the vessel

By the custom of this port seamen are not required to lade the vessel Unless then the libellants have expressly agreed to lade the vessel the order to truck wheat was unlawful But the simple order did not discharge the men nor justify their leaving the ship If they were willing to assist the stevedore so as to speed the lading and departure of the ship they might do so and it not there was no harm done in asking them Neither is it all clear that the mate intended to knock the men off. The direction to go below —into the forecastle—was a lawful one and may have been intended and understood in connection with what preceded it, as a declaration—if you won't truck wheat there is nothing else for you to do go below

But be this as it may, the mate had no pow er to discharge the libellants, and if he at tempted to do so instead of clutching at the circumstance as an excuse to leave the vessel and recover their wages they should have ap pealed to the master the first opportunity In any case after meeting the master on the shore and being informed by him that the mate had no authority to knock them off and being di rected by him to return on board with the as surance that they should have their meals and need not work they ought to have returned to duty at once

Their refusal to do this taken in connection with all the circumstances of the case, indi cates that the libellants were seeking an excuse to leave the vessel with the law on their side so they could recover their wages for the out ward voyage and be discharged in a port where wages is much higher than the final port of discharge to which the vessel was bound

For the reasons suggested the libellants were not discharged by the action of the mate on the occasion in question, and therefore they are not entitled to recover anything for their services Unless this contract is substantially violated by the master no wages are due upon it to the seamen until the final completion of the voyage In some respects the mate's con duct was very reprehensible and his testimony equally unsatisfactory If the libellants after time for reflection, had gone back to the ship and proffered to return to duty and been re fused in a suit for wages, the court would have probably excused their temporary absence although a legal desertion, on ac count of the mate's conduct towards them in the first instance But being as I suppose desirous to quit the ship, and at the same time thinking they had a technical ad vantage by which they might recover their wages notwithstanding the non completion of the voyage they refused to return to duty even when informed by the master that the mate had no authority to knock them off and that they would not be required to handle cargo It turns out that they were mistaken in their scheme and must lose the wages earned unless they return to duty and complete their contract.

It is also insisted by counsel for libel lants that the barque will not be able to reach a port in Europe or the United King dom within a period of 12 months from the date of leaving Glasgow and that therefore the sailing to this port was a substantial devia tion from the voyage described in the articles on account of which all the libellants are en titled to be discharged and recover the wages earned up to this time

These articles were executed under § 149 of the merchants shipping act 1854 17 and 18 Vic c 104 which provides that the articles among other things shall contain the follow ing particulars as terms thereof (1.) The nature and as far as practicable the duration of the intended voyage or engagement

Of course it was impracticable to state the exact duration of the voyage contemplated in these articles Therefore it is sufficient to ap proximate to it Accordingly it was not agreed that the voyage should not extend beyond or fall within 12 months but only that its dura tion would probably be 12 months From Bue nos Ayres the master was at liberty to go to a port or ports in any of the countries or divi sions of the globe mentioned in the articles but only to one of them This option he has exercised in coming to this port From here he is bound to proceed directly and with all convenient dispatch to a port of final discharge in Europe or the United Kingdom If in so doing, more than 12 months are consumed it is a part of the engagement of the libellants that they will re main by the vessel They have contracted to serve for the voyage absolutely and for the necessary time to make it in be it more or less than 12 months

Of course if the voyage was negligently or wantonly delayed for any considerable period over 12 months—say 6 months—the engage ment of the libellants would be at an end whether the voyage was or not The implied undertaking of the master is that there will be an honest and intelligent effort to make the voyage within the time mentioned If this is done the libellants took the risk of delay when they contracted for the voyage

Certainly it must have been expected by libellants when they signed these articles that the length of the voyage might be at least two months over or under 12 months Subject to this contingency at least they made this agree ment. It is quite certain that the Hotspur will complete her voyage inside of 14 months This calculation allows 6½ months for the re turn trip But it is also probable—and that is all the certainty the articles require—that she will make it inside of the 12 months

Let a decree be entered for Steward for $90 for Crawford for $70 for Griffith for $60 and for Brown for $40 with costs of suit and as this calculation is made upon a gold basis let ten per cent be added to these amounts upon the supposition that the decree will be satisfied with currency and as to Freund and McFar lane that the libel be dismissed with costs to the claimant

JOSEPH MEDILL INELIGIBLE FOR THE PRESI DENCY —The Cincinnati Gazette which has been supporting Joseph Medill for the Presi dency says "A correspondent informs us that the Hon Joseph Medill was born in British North America If this is true it is to be regretted The constitution in that case settles the question But the favor with which his name was received in connection with the Presidency shows that the people are favorable to the elevation of a sound practi cal man to that high office

THE MURDERER OF A LEPER EXECUTED — New York October 30 —A Bathurst (New Brunswick) special says Oliver Gallion was yesterday executed for killing Xavier Paulin The murdered man was a leper, and a priest had ordered a practical divorce between him and his wife Illicit relations sprung up between her and Gallion, and they plotted the murder of Paulin Gallion killed him with an ax, and afterward confessed his crime at the inquest The woman is held as accessory.

ABOUT THE WEST SIDE ROAD

A LETTER FROM YAMHILL

MCMINNVILLE Nov 3 1874

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

The clouds are gathering and Webfoot win ter is at hand However we cannot com plain The autumn has been glorious, and our harvest bountiful Most of our farmers have disposed of their grain, either by sale shipment or storing for the future

Our town is overflowing with wheat and if we only had the railroad either termin ating or running through here, instead of at Holladay's town site failure St Joe, we could give it plenty to do to make it a good busi ness for the winter but as it is the waters of the Yamhill and Wallamet or the old wagon road must be our means of getting our wheat to market

This railroad terminus is a sore point with us at McMinnville We subscribed liberally, of lots and money, as much was given as we could afford, on condition that the road should come to our town and give us a depot The old company located the road on this line, and Congress named our town as the terminus in the land grant But Ben Holladay upset the whole thing, after getting all the money out of the people that he could and though he never put a dollar of his own money in the road he appeared to think it was only to be built for his own pri vate speculations and that no attention should be given as to whether the people were bene fited or not or as to whether the road paid Well, it is some consolation to know that his St Joe townsite is a dead failure, and that the land is less valuable now than when it was farmed for wheat I understand that Gaston was at St Joe on Saturday with another agent of the German bondholders, and went up over the line to show him the country and induce him to put in more money It is reported here that the Germans say that they won't advance another cent unless the road is graded or the people along the line give one-third or one-half the cost But they need not look for the people to do anything for any enterprise that old Ben Holladay has a hand in We tried that once, and wasn't anxious to give of our own means to help Holladay mend his broken fortunes and to enable him to use what we give to put us to every inconven ience and loss he can Look at the way he has treated Hillsboro and Forest Grove and McMinnville, where the people helped with their lands labor and money to build the very road that he now uses for the sole pur pose of building up his private towns and runs right by these towns although they are the only ones on the route worthy the name, and thus though the people are damaged and in convenienced and the road loses money and the bondholders that furnished the money to build all that the people along the line didn't build, don't get a cent of interest This kind of thing may suit some people, but it don't us, and if the bondholders want the road finished and placed on a paying basis, they would better kick old Ben out But if they are so "struck" after a man who has used them as badly as Holladay has, why they must pack him along The people of this part of the country are not going to help that is cer tain But if they will put him out and give us some good, fair and half way honest man or men to manage the road we are ready and willing to give all in our power to help it along, with work land and money to help build it, and freights to make it pay after it is built. But as for Holladay when he pays up his debts and does as he agreed we will help him again and not before I think if the bondholders only knew how the people felt about it it would not be long until they took such action as would be a mutual benefit to themselves and the people along the line

A NOTE FROM JUDGE REED

PORTLAND Nov 5, 1874.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

In your issue of yesterday there appeared in the local column what purported to be a joke at my expense It was all well enough in the absence of anything better, except the con cluding sentence I except to that as implying that there was some fault found by me with management of the company The incident referred to was so trifling in itself and has occurred to me so often in mountain traveling that I never mentioned it or thought of it after it happened In traveling up and down and over this coast for twenty years I have found no stage line which was better managed or had more accommodating and capable drivers than the Northwestern

CHARLOTTE CUSHMAN'S FAREWELL TO THE STAGE —New York October 29 —A grand tes timonial will be paid to Miss Cushman at Booth's Theater on Saturday evening, No vember 7th, on the occasion of her last ap pearance on the stage. Upon the conclusion of the performance Miss Cushman is to be made the center of a group composed of the various city actors in evening dress headed by their respective managers William Cullen Bryant and Judge Brady will then advance with delegations from the Lotus and Arcadi an Clubs and Bryant will deliver a poem composed expressly for the occasion Judge Brady will then amidst music from the large orchestra and the Ninth Regimental Band present Miss Cushman with a Greek lyre of laurel leaves and masks of Tragedy and Come dy in immortelles She will afterwards be es corted to her hotel in an open carriage drawn by six white horses and preceded by the Eighth Regimental Band and a serenade will then take place and Miss Cushman will finally at the Arcadian Club say a farewell to the New York public The theater will be elabo rately decorated and President Grant Gov Dix Mayor Havemeyer, Judges of the Su preme Court and other distinguished gentle men are expected to be present

THE PAWNEES TO BE REMOVED FROM NEBRAS KA —Omaha October 30 —The Government has concluded final arrangements with the Pawnee Indians for their removal from their reservation in Nebraska to one to be selected for them in the Indian Territory This is an important and fortunate event for this State as it will open up to settlers some of the finest land in the West The Pawnee reservation is situated in Eastern Nebraska and is thickly surrounded by settlers and covers an area of nearly 500 square miles The Government will place these lands in the market at an early day for the benefit of the Pawnees They have been given permission to engage in a buffalo hunt in the Indian Territory with their relatives the Wichitas after which they promise they will forever abandon the chase and apply themselves to farming and civilized pursuits

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE UNDER CONTROL OF EX MAYOR MEDILL —Chicago October 30 — The sensation of the day in this city is the well authenticated report that ex Mayor Joseph Medill has bought a controlling interest in the Chicago Tribune newspaper, though not as a distinctively party organ Including what he has just purchased Mr Medill now owns 106 of the 200 shares and will consequently have full control of the paper and occupy the posi tion of editor in-chief which was formerly held by him The chief public interest in the sale centers around the prospective political status of the paper since for some time past it has been decidedly independent with a strong leaning however, against the Republi can party

The Daily Oregonian.

FRIDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 6, 1874.

WHAT IS TO BE EXPECTED OF CONGRESS.

More than half the members of the present Congress have been elected to stay at home. They will retire from the halls of Congress on the 4th of next March. Back to their law offices and counting houses and farms they will go, a majority of them to return never again to the scenes of their struggles, triumphs and defeats in the work of statesmanship.

But there is a session of Congress before their retirement. What may be reasonably expected of them during that session? There are some important matters, especially important to the Pacific coast, upon which they must act. The Northern Pacific Railway Company will have a proposition before Congress to change its land subsidy into something capable of immediate utilization. In this Oregon and Washington Territory are deeply interested. The bill to aid the Portland, Dalles and Salt Lake road is pending, having been reported by committees of both House and Senate. In this matter Oregon and a part of Washington and Idaho Territories are most vitally interested. An effort will doubtless be made to secure more aid for the Winnemucca railway enterprise. All Oregon and parts of Nevada and California greatly need this road. Southern California and Arizona see a question almost of life or death in the [illegible] or failure of the Texas and Pacific transcontinental railway, which is also deemed of the greatest moment to all the Southern and Southwestern States. This enterprise will be before Congress for a subsidy in some form.

It is certain there will be less timidity among members this session than during the last. The few who are to continue in Congress have their election already made sure, and the many who have not been so elected will be equally free from the pressure of a pending election. There will naturally, therefore, be less of consulting the popular pulse and correspondingly more of attention to what appears for the advancement of the best interests of the whole country; more of true statesmanship and less of expedients to tickle the public palate.

These considerations lead us to hope for prompt and favorable action on those meritorious measures in which our people are so peculiarly interested. The commencement of Bourbon rule—if Bourbon rule is meant by the Eastern elections—will not be till after the legislation most urgently demanded can be secured, if it can be secured at all.

BUENOS AYRES.

Although the telegraphic dispatches have from day to day for some time past given accounts of the progress of the insurrection against the Government of the Argentine Republic, so little has been given of the causes of the insurrection that few persons in this country have information on that point. It is a very simple matter, as, in fact, are nearly all insurrections among the Latin American peoples. A little over six years ago, General Mitre, then President of the Republic, after distinguishing himself as a soldier in the war waged by Brazil and the Argentine Republic jointly against the tyrant of Uruguay, and as a statesman in his civil administration, retired from the Presidency—his term having expired—and was succeeded by Sarmiento. Under Mitre's wise rule the Republic prospered, [illegible] was preserved, and the laws were better enforced than they had been,—better than they usually are in Spanish countries. The Constitution of the Republic is a one term Constitution. The President holds his office for six years and is ineligible to re-election until a term has intervened. The election for Sarmiento's successor took place last May, the term to begin on the 12th of October. The candidates were Gen. Mitre and Dr. Avallaneda, and the latter received 146 out of 225 electoral votes, being nearly two thirds of all the votes in the Electoral College. Gen. Mitre alleges that violence, fraud and corruption reigned supreme in the election and that only through these agencies was Avallaneda chosen, and that Mitre was clearly the choice of a large majority of the voters. On the 12th of October Avallaneda was duly inaugurated President, whereupon Gen. Mitre issued a pronunciamento in true Spanish style. The people rallied to his standard and the insurrection is now about to be a successful revolution.

THE NEW DEPARTURE.

We cannot but admire the versatility of the Bulletin. Its editorial chapter on the best method of securing bees from trees is exactly in point, after the news from the Eastern elections. If we had thought of it we should have written on the same subject. Republican and Independent journals will doubtless find such topics quite as agreeable as political ones for a while hereafter. We know nothing about politics. In fact we have never possessed any tastes, in that direction. We have had some experience in mining, and pretend to know something about sheep and goats. We have also had considerable experience in raising wheat, corn and cotton, but that was a long time ago. It is our intention to burnish up our knowledge of these delightful subjects and to devote our space henceforth to mining, agriculture and bucolics. This new departure is rendered necessary by "circumstances of a political character over which we have no control." From this time forward our theme must be the mine, the farm, the kitchen garden. "Let us have peas."

When the Forty-Third Congress assembled in December, 1873, the House stood: 195 Republicans, 92 Democrats and Liberals, 5 seats vacant. At the end of the session a full House would have divided: 201 Republican, 91 Democrats. The Senate at its adjournment stood: 50 Administration Republicans, 3 Independents, 20 Democrats, and 1 seat (Louisiana) vacant.

The Representatives in Illinois were chosen by a plan of cumulative voting, three in each district.

OREGON'S PRODUCTS ADMIRED IN SCOTLAND.

MAGNIFICENT SPECIMENS OF CORN FROM OREGON.—In another column we quote from Wednesday's London Times a part of a very interesting description of Oregon by its San Francisco correspondent, who recently paid a visit to that State and Washington Territory. We may mention that there was also on Wednesday received in Dundee from Mr. Wm. Watson, son of the late Mr. Hugh Watson, of Keillor, a remarkably fine sample of what he calls "Scotch Oregon wheat." In writing respecting it, to Mr. Wm. Reid, asking him to forward the sample to Dundee, he says: "The sample I send you is an honest average one from a 52 acre field. This season, under honest Scotch hands, the field will yield at least 40 bushels per acre, simply through deep cultivation and sub-soiling. Represent this to the folks at home. What is the use of talking of the land 'where the sun goes down, if we have not something substantial to back it up with?'" Besides the above there has been received from Oregon some magnificent specimens of wheat, oats and barley. The oats in particular are such as probably no one in Dundee ever saw before, the heads and straw being alike gigantic. From these specimens of its crops Oregon seems to be another Goshen. They are at present in the office of the Oregon and Washington Company, Murraygate, where they may be seen any time after to-day.

Mr. William Reid has letters from his correspondents in Dundee, advising him to ask the State authorities to forward such samples all over the United Kingdom, along with short, pithy pamphlets, descriptive of this State. They also say that Mr. Reid should advise the Governor to appoint Commissioners in all the large cities of Great Britain to make Oregon known, and they urge Mr. Reid to do all he can to rouse the people of Oregon to spare no expense in disseminating in Europe information as to this State, as they feel satisfied that if this were done both English and Scotch capital and labor would go to Oregon in larger quantities than to any British Colony. When we think of these things, we feel heartily ashamed of the Legislature last session throwing out an immigration bill which only asked an appropriation of $7,500. We feel satisfied that nothing would have been so well spent and done so much good to this State. When we think of strangers in Scotland interesting themselves so much in Oregon, yet Oregon will not second their movements and co-operate with them, we almost begin to lose faith in our people. We urged last week our people to contribute liberally towards the expenses of the newly appointed Board of Immigration, and we now repeat that request. There are five more Scotch families on their way to Oregon from Dundee to arrive here in a fortnight.

STREET CLEANING.

We notice in the report of the proceedings of the Common Council that Mr. W. H. Anderson has submitted a proposition for cleaning the streets of the city, having a machine for that purpose. Whatever may be the disposition of the Common Council toward this proposition, no one can wonder at its being presented. No one who walks through our streets with eyes open—or his nose—can fail to perceive at once the necessity for some action in the premises. The streets are in a miserably unclean condition, notwithstanding the arrangements by which they are supposed to be regularly cleaned at the expense of adjacent occupants. In some places the stench that comes up from private drains and sewers is as offensive to the olfactories as the surface rubbish is to the eye. Whether the plan of cleaning by contract shall be adopted, or the present system retained, sanitary considerations alone, not to speak of those that appeal to the senses of every passer-by, should prompt the city fathers to insist upon the better cleaning of the streets.

A TEMPERANCE COLONY.

The Lompoc Temperance Colony of Santa Barbara county, California, is to have a great sale of lands on the 9th of this month and succeeding days. The Colony is formed by a corporation, which has purchased 46,000 acres of land in Santa Barbara county, fronting seven miles on the coast and running back inland about twelve miles. These lands consist of agricultural, grazing and garden lands, and a town site one mile square. They are reported well watered and possess a climate similar to that of Santa Cruz. Every deed or contract of sale contains a covenant to run with the land prohibiting forever the manufacture or sale of spirituous, vinous, or malt liquor thereon. These lands are to be sold upon terms that will allow the purchasers to pay for them in small annual installments, and it is reported great numbers are taking advantage of the opportunity thus afforded to obtain a home on easy terms.

Chester W. Chapin, Democratic (so-called) candidate for Congress in the Eleventh Congressional District of Massachusetts, is about as much of a Bourbon as Wm. Gaston and John K. Tarbox. His letter of acceptance reads as follows:

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 12, 1874.

HON. GEORGE M. STEARNS—My Dear Sir: I cannot fail to be conscious that my name has been suggested with others as a candidate of the Democratic and Liberal voters for member of Congress from this district. Should the sense of the Convention to be held to-morrow point to a confirmation of these suggestions, I desire to say, that, while I have been a life-long Democrat, the great questions of the day are such in my opinion as call for the exercise of an independent judgment, and should be met and acted upon untrammeled by party.

Very truly yours,
C. W. CHAPIN.

Julius H. Seelye, Professor in Amherst College, elected to Congress from the 10th district; Nathaniel P. Banks, from the 5th district, and William W. Warren, from the 8th district are Independents, or known as such. Here are five of the six opposition members elect to be classed as Independents.

Somebody is evidently poking fun at President Grant. The idea of his being such a ninny as to talk as he is reported by telegraph! Of course Washburne is a good man, but Grant has a good deal too much sense to say anything in his favor if he really wants to see him President. That might have done last week, but it is too late now—entirely too late. And then to see that cruel thrust about the President's intention to "go after" the Credit Mobilier rascality in his forthcoming message! The man that perpetrates that sort of thing ought to be turned over to Bergh.

The New York papers say that President Grant, during his recent visit to the West was confronted at a fair in Kansas by a politician named Cone. In the presence of a large crowd he put this question to Grant. "Are you for a third term?" No answer. Cone turned to the crowd, threw up his hat in great glee, and cried out: "Hurrah, boys! Silence gives consent!" The recent individual of destiny concluded that this was pushing the matter a little too far. He simply said: "I leave all that in the hands of the people."

For the first time in the history of the State, with one exception, Massachusetts has elected a Democratic Governor.—Bulletin.

Not quite so fast. In 1840 Marcus Morton, a Democrat, was elected Governor of Massachusetts. In 1843 he ran a second time, against "Honest John Davis," the Whig candidate, and Joel Hayden, Abolition candidate. The Constitution (amended in this respect in 1855) made a majority of all the votes cast necessary to an election. The election was thrown into the legislature and Marcus Morton was elected.

The candidates for Delegate from Arizona were seven, as follows: John Smith, H. S. Stevens, William H. Hardy, C. C. Bean, John A. Rush, O. T. Hayden, D. G. Beardsley—every man on his own hook. Prescott advices indicate the election of H. S. Stevens.

The election news of this morning shows the revolution to be greatly beyond what it appeared from yesterday's dispatches. We should like to say something more, but we can't do justice to the subject.

"Whatever you may do, we implore you to send Republicans and not Democrats to Congress." Address of the Congressional Republican Committee.

A CARD.

WHEREAS, CERTAIN LITIGATION BEtween the undersigned and John W. Kern has been compromised and settled to the mutual satisfaction of both parties, and said Kern having stated in his answer filed in said suit that in procuring a certain deed to be executed to him he had no design or intention of using said deed to the prejudice of said Tibbetts, I therefore state in return that certain harsh language used by me of said Kern was used in anger when I supposed and believed he intended to use said deed to the injury of my title to lands mentioned in it. Mr. Kern having disclaimed any such design and allowed my title to said property to be quieted as against any effect of said deed, I therefore hereby retract any and all harsh or abusive language used by me in regard to him while I was laboring under said impression that said deed had been procured by him for unfair and unneighborly purposes.
1t GIDEON TIBBETTS.

NOMINATION FOR CHIEF ENGINEER.

THE FOLLOWING PREAMBLE AND RESOLUtions were unanimously adopted at a meeting held by Protection Engine Company No. 4, on Thursday, October 1, 1874:

WHEREAS, The time is fast approaching in which it will, in accordance with law, become the duty of the FIRE DEPARTMENT to select from among its members a suitable person in whose ability and integrity we may safely rely in times of great danger, for the office of CHIEF ENGINEER: and

WHEREAS, The known ability as well as the past services of ROBERT HOLMAN point to him as being the the right man in the right place; therefore, be it

Resolved by this Company, That we hereby NOMINATE and agree to support ROBERT HOLMAN, a member of this Company and present FOREMAN thereof, for the office of CHIEF ENGINEER of the PORTLAND FIRE DEPARTMENT at the coming election for Chief and Assistant Engineers, to be held on the first Monday in December, 1874.

Resolved, That these resolutions be published in the daily papers of this city.

A CATHOLIC HALL.—In the last [illegible] of the Sentinel we find the following: "For twenty-two years the Catholics [illegible] numerous enough in Portland to [illegible] and resident pastors; for nearly half [illegible] period we have been favored with [illegible] have increased and multiplied. Societies we have, too, that are well on in years, numerous in membership and flourishing in a financial point of view; yet there is one important project that has as yet not awakened that interest among us that it deserves, and that is a Catholic Hall, which could be used by our Societies, where lectures could be given, where meetings could be held; a building that in shape, size and appearance would attract the youth as well as the mature [illegible] of our faith to congregate within its portals, and on which Catholics could look with pride. The project of erecting such a building is entire feasible if once a concert of action is entered into by [illegible] civil and military bodies that are [illegible] over the city in rented rooms which consume, in a few years, an amount sufficient to [illegible] and furnish a building we could call our own."

THE DROWNED MAN.—In speaking of the unfortunate young man Daniel W[illegible] Brown, who was drowned last [illegible] in the river, opposite the city, the [illegible] says: "Mr. Thomas Brown, of Marion Station, in this State, is a half brother of the [illegible] The great depth of the water and the extremely snaggy condition of the river's bed at that place rendered any hope of recovering the body by grappling hooks as [illegible] and useless. In a day or two [illegible] body will probably rise to the surface, when it will be recovered by the friends and receive a Christian burial. We learn that the [illegible] was subject to fits of insanity, having once [illegible] the Insane Asylum. No doubt [illegible] state of mind he made the [illegible] to [illegible] the river, but his strength [illegible] for the task. He was the [illegible] one of the family whose death [illegible] His brother, [illegible] was drowned in the Wabash river, Illi[illegible]"

GRANGE MARKET COMPANY.—Articles of incorporation of this Company were filed yesterday in the County Clerk's office by T. D. Jewett, H. J. McIntyre and Jas. Hu[illegible] The duration of the cor[illegible] is fi[illegible] years. The enterprise, busin[illegible] and [illegible] which the corporation propose [illegible] the owning and carrying on of a general vegetable and grocery [illegible] to own and d[illegible] of all kinds of meats, [illegible] sheep, hogs, fowls and all kinds of [illegible] mals suitable for [illegible]; also all [illegible] groceries, etc., and all [illegible] for sale in such market; and also to [illegible] all property, real and [illegible] and proper to carry on such business. The principal office of the Company is located in Portland. The amount of the capital stock is fixed at $2,000, in shares of $50 [illegible]

NEW BOOKS.—J. K. Gill & Co. have just received from the publishers the following books: "The Thirty Years' War," by Gindely; "The Crusades," by G. W. Cox; [illegible] Era of the Protestant Revolution," by [illegible] bohm; "Alleged Discrepancies of the B[illegible]" by Haley; "The Mysterious Is[illegible]" by Jules Verne; "Ten Old Maids," by Julie P. AMUSEMENTS.

Referring to the amusement column it will be seen that the irrepressible Dr. Haskell, accompanied with a large combination of talent, is making his way toward Portland, and expects to arrive here next week. His first performance will be given in this city next Friday evening.

Remember the opening performance this evening at Oro Fino Theater. An attractive programme will be presented, in which all the members of the legitimate company are to appear. The entertainment will open with the three-act comedy of "Victim of Circumstances." Following this will be a duet, sung by Mrs R. Fulford and Miss Minnie Pixley. Mr. Tony Ward will next appear in his Dutch specialties. Mrs. Fulford will favor the audience with a Chinese song, and the whole performance will conclude with the farce of "The Youth who Never Saw a Woman."

BUSINESS NOTICES.

George A. Pease & Co., that well-known enterprising firm, publish elsewhere an advertisement, to which we direct special attention. We would call particular attention to their immense stock of boots and shoes, which has just been received by steamer. The stock has been selected carefully with express reference to the demands of the fall and winter trade. Every article sold by George A. Pease & Co. is fully warranted to be superior to any now in market. Any customer calling can be suited in respect to quality, fit and price. CITY.

A CATHOLIC HALL.—In the last number of the [illegible] we find the following "For twenty-two years the Catholics have been numerous enough in Portland to have a Church, and resident pastors for nearly half that period we have been favored with schools, which [illegible] and multiplied Societies we have too, that are well on in years, numerous [illegible] and flourishing in a financial point of view yet there is one important object that has as yet not awakened that interest among us that it deserves, and that is a Hall which could be used by our [illegible], where lectures could be given where [illegible] could be held a building that in design, size and appearance would attract the young as well as the mature aged of our faith [illegible] within its portals, and on which we could look with pride. The project of such a building is entire feasible if [illegible] of action is entered into by those [illegible] and military bodies that are scattered over the city in rented rooms which consume, in a few years, an amount sufficient to erect [illegible] a building we could call our own"

THE DROWNED MAN.—In speaking of the unfortunate young man Daniel Webster Brown, who was drowned last week in the [illegible] the city, the Advocate says "Mr. [illegible] Brown, of Marion Station, in this State, is a half brother of the deceased The great depth of the water and the [illegible] condition of the river's bed at [illegible] place rendered any hope of recovering the body by grappling hooks as vain and useless. In a day or two more the body will probably rise to the surface, when it will be recovered by the friends and receive a Christian burial. We learn that the deceased was subject to fits of insanity, having once been in the Insane Asylum. No doubt while in such a fit he made the attempt to swim [illegible], but his strength proved insufficient [illegible]. He was the second one of the [illegible] death occurred by drowning [illegible] sixteen years, was drowned in [illegible] river, Illinois"

MARKET COMPANY.—Articles of incorporation of this Company were filed yesterday in the County Clerk's office by T D [illegible] J [illegible] H J McIntyre and Jas Hulett. The [illegible] of the corporation is fixed at fifty years. The enterprise, business and pursuit in which the corporation proposes to engage is the owning and carrying on of a general vegetable and [illegible] market, to own and dispose of all kinds of meats, [illegible], and also cattle [illegible] hogs, fowls and all kinds of live animals [illegible] table for eating; also all vegetables, [illegible] etc., and all manner of articles kept [illegible] in such market, and also to own and [illegible] property, real and personal necessary and proper to carry on such business. The principal office of the Company is located in Portland The amount of the capital stock is fixed at $2,000, in shares of $20 each

NEW BOOKS.—J K Gill & Co have just received from the [illegible] the following new books "The Thirty Years' War," by Gardiner, "The Crusades," by G W Cox, "The [illegible] of the Protestant Revolution," by Seebohm, "Alleged Discrepancies of the Bible," by Haley "The Mysterious Island by Jules Verne, "Ten Old Maids," by Julie P Smith, "Friendly Fairies," "The Twins of St Marcel" all for sale at Eastern retail prices.

KEEPING THE COUNTY BOOKS.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE APPOINTED LAST MONTH TO EXAMINE INTO AND REPORT UPON THE BOOKS OF THE COUNTY

The following report was submitted to the County Court on Wednesday as the result of the labors of the Investigating Committee appointed some weeks ago by that body to examine the books of the county for the last ten years We publish only the statement of the Committee in relation to the condition of the books of the county as found by them omitting the trial balance for each year

To the Honorable the County Court for Multnomah County Oregon The undersigned a committee appointed by your Honorable Body to examine into and report upon the condition of the books belonging to the Clerk's office of this county having performed that duty beg leave to report as follows

That as soon as practicable after notice of appointment the committee met at the office of the County Clerk and the books to be examined were submitted to our inspection A brief examination was sufficient to convince us that a thorough investigation would require no small amount of labor

As it was impracticable for all the members of the committee to give their personal attention to the labor incident to the examination it was deemed advisable to employ some persons who could give the required time to the work, and complete it as soon as possible It was therefore decided to employ Mr J K Arnold as a competent person to undertake the work and his services were obtained without any understanding as to what compensation he should receive

When the books were first examined by your Committee it was our opinion that the most satisfactory way to arrive at the correctness of the books would be to take the journal and repost all the entries

In pursuance of this plan Mr Arnold reposted the books from July 1st 1864, to July 1st, 1865 After taking a trial balance there from it was found to differ so widely from the original ledger that it was deemed best to dispense with any further reposting of the books up to July 1st, 1868

The books from July 1864 to July 1868 were kept in such a loose manner that it would have been necessary to examine all books of original entry to arrive at any correct conclusion As this was a work which the Committee thought was not contemplated by your honorable body when making the appointment it was thought best not to extend our researches beyond July 1st, 1868 at which time the officer then in charge of the books—Mr B L Norden—had made an unsuccessful attempt to reconcile the differences then existing in the books and to get them properly balanced Mr Norden informed your Committee that when he assumed the charge of the books, he spent some months in trying to reconcile them, but was unable to make them balance by the sum of $242 89 and he finally forced a balance by increasing the County Fund by the last named amount.

The examination accordingly began at this point As it was found that the investigation could be carried on much more rapidly and correctly by two persons, Mr Steel of the Committee concluded to give his personal attention to the work, in connection with Mr Arnold, and from July 1868 to July, 1874 all entries appearing upon the journal were examined and their postings footings and balances carefully scrutinized

The books for the two years ending July 1 1870, with the exception of one entry on page 110 of journal and a few errors in the fraction of cents, were found to have been kept in a neat and correct manner The entry referred to above is as follows

To W P Doland Co Treasurer	$1 200
To State School Lands	1,200

The posting of this entry is the reverse of what appears on the journal that is on the ledger W P Doland County Treasurer was credited $1 200 and State school lands was debited $1 200 As there was nothing explanatory in connection with the entry we are unable to say which is correct the posting to the ledger or the entry as it appears on the journal

The books for the year ending July 1 1871, with the exception of some slight errors in fractions were found to have been kept correctly

On the trial balance at the close of 1871, on page 231 of ledger, there is an error of ½c in bringing forward the balance of W P Doland ex Treasurer's account The balance as brought forward being $860 03¼, whereas it should have been $860 03¾ Had this balance been brought forward correctly the trial balance of that date would have been correct As it is we find a debit of ½ cent for error in balance orders class 'O,' in statement for year ending July 2 1870

For the year ending July 1872, we found the following errors Second entry on page 146 of Journal is as follows To G A Steel, County Treasurer debtor $50 to licenses, $50 This amount was posted to the debit of G A Steel County Treasurer, but was not posted to credit of license account This should have resulted in a difference of that amount in the total balance for that year but said balance on folio 237 of ledger was correct After a careful examination it was discovered that the balance of county orders, class 'I,' folio 105 $201 28 was carried forward to folio 224 as $251 28 The result of these two errors was to make the books balance but both should be corrected On folio 167 there is a debit balance against W P Doland County Treasurer of $860 03 and on folio 212 State School Lands, has a credit balance of $860 03 These appear in the total balance of July 1871 but not in any subsequent balance In entering upon the examination of the books on July 1st 1872 forward we encountered more difficulties Under the then new administration the balances of existing accounts appeared to have been brought forward with the exception of W P Doland County Treasurer, and State School Lands as named above, also, folio 93, county orders class 'L,' $6 21; county orders, class 'G,' $13 80 On folio 273 County Fund balance brought forward is $16,873 83, while the correct balance is $16,883 92—showing a difference of $0 99 On page 171 of Journal, County Fund is debtor to Building Fund $1 423 72 and so posted and on page 172, amongst the items charged to County Fund is the same amount, to Building Fund $1 423 72, but was not posted to Building Fund In this the County Fund was undoubtedly charged twice with that amount Interest account, $360 57 folio 281 of Ledger and Discount Account $275 17, folio 280 were both closed by County Fund, but these amounts do not appear to have been debited to County Fund After bringing forward the balances of County orders F and G and correcting the foregoing errors the trial balance for 1873 accompanying this would be correct except a difference of one cent, arising from fractions of cents in which we find frequent errors during this year but concluded that it would not justify the county in having much time spent in looking up such trifles so we ignored them

The books from July 1, 1873, to July 1 1874 were in a very bad condition—much worse than for the preceding year The journal entries were many of them without any explanation whatever Duplicate and cross entries were made apparently without object Postings were made to form accounts from [illegible] entry and some entries were not posted at all To enumerate all the errors would involve much time and space Suffice it to say that we compared the journal and ledger and checked off all the postings but the books would not balance We rechecked them but with no better success and finally the entire year's business was reposted to another ledger and a trial balance taken from that, which is presented herewith and which we think is a correct statement of the financial condition of the county at that date, viz July 2, 1874 We have not gone behind any of the Journal entries to investigate the transactions which led to these entries but have assumed that they are correct records of such transactions save the palpable errors in book keeping A very considerable difference will be noticed between the trial balance of the Committee and that of the County Clerk on page 288 of the ledger That shows a balance in county fund unappropriated of $4 [illegible] while ours shows a deficit of $7 [illegible] 12 or a total difference of $12 467 [illegible] 12 This difference appears to be made up first of a debit balance in deficit which appears in county fund account on county books July 1 1873 of $10 [illegible] 11½ which is not carried forward but seems to have been entirely disregarded in the subsequent additions and transfers of the account Second by failure to post to debit of county fund at end of 1874, the amount of interest account $2 910 08 and discount account $2 [illegible] 24 Said accounts appear on the county books as closed by county fund yet there is no corresponding debit to the latter account The sum of these errors less the balance reported on hand $4911 [illegible] would leave the deficit $8 410 11½ but this is to be decreased by errors on the other [illegible] whereby county fund is debited in excess of the amounts required to close accounts as follows

Circuit Court	$1 065 00
Attorney's fees State cases	608 50
County Court	48 00
Total	$1 721 50

On page 198 of journal under date of June 30th is an entry showing that warrants of certain specified classes were cancelled by order of the County Court to the amount of $858 49 and this sum was passed to the credit of County Fund. The committee disregarded this entry for the reason that classes of warrants issued prior to those cancelled were standing upon the books and also that class 'K' was by this entry overpaid $9 89 Deducting from $8 410 11½ the amount of $1 721 50 and adding to it $858 49 leaves the balance deficit of $7 547 10½ or within $65 of the amount on our trial balance which we deemed near enough to prove the correctness of the process

Having made as thorough an examination of the books as the means at our command would admit of we would recommend the opening of the accounts for July 1 1874 with the balances presented on our trial balance

All of which is respectfully submitted

A FEW WEEKS SINCE while suffering from a very severe Cold I became so hoarse that it was with great difficulty I could speak so as to be understood While in this condition Dr Jayne's Expectorant not only gave me immediate relief but in three to four days completely removed the hoarseness and cured my cold I therefore take pleasure in recommending the Expectorant as being in my judgment the best cough medicine before the public.—Rev B F HEDDEN Pastor of First Baptist Church Camden N J

Courting Disease.

The individual may be said to court disease who exposes himself to the miasmatic influences which give rise to chills and fever and other malarious epidemics and endemics, without previously fortifying his system against their insidious attacks by the use of a protective medicinal agent. The hardiest constitution is by no means proof against such maladies much less one naturally weak or bilious on the antagonistic power of which is lessened by an irregular habit of body The inhabitants of the bottom lands of the South of the new clearings of the West of suburban districts where sunken lots exist of every locality of the American continent in fact, where malaria is epidemic or sporadic declare that the only true antidote to the miasmatic virus that they have ever used is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters There seems to be something peculiarly resistant in this standard preventive and remedy to all hurtful atmospheric influences

SOUTH CAROLINA CONSERVATIVES

PERSONNEL OF THE CONVENTION ETC

[Correspondence N. Y. Herald.]

The Hall of Delegates where to-day the convention met (Oct. 8) is a grand example of the profligacy of the carpet-baggers government in magnificent wood carving, gas fixtures and upholstery. The walls are paneled in plaster to imitate stone. Two tiers of windows are hung with brocatel of a dark red, trimmed with yellow, pendulous with tassels and corniced with gilt and black walnut—in all 8 great windows. Over the speaker's chair the huge window, wide as a barn door, is adorned with a great gilt banneret of blue, tasseled, and a flap comes down from the centre on which is a palmetto tree in black gilt about three feet high; the whole window is lined half way down with walnut timber, carved and gilded. The speaker sits about four feet above the floor on a large platform, large enough for a prize fight, carpeted in rich figured Brussels. On each side of him are magnificent bronze and gilt chandeliers, each with five globe lights and figures and foliage of the palmetto variety. The gaseliers, four in number, drop about twenty-five feet from the high ceiling and each contains thirty resplendent globes. The ceiling is molded in the cornice about three feet deep with Greek relievo. The clock over the entrance door is a Swiss chalet of black walnut, large enough for twelve black crows to roost within it, if they chose, and caw the hours. Brackets along the walls show similar globes of cut glass, ready to flame when the day grows dingy, against the mahogany countenances seated within at the sixty walnut desks, each desk accommodated to two persons and provided with large walnut chairs seated with red leather. Under each chair is a spittoon (cuspador) shaped like a double lever, of white China enamelled in green and gilt, and each spittoon is said to have cost $15. Against the wall are large walnut sofas in red plush upholstering. The entire floor, as it looks to be about [illegible] square, is carpeted with soft thick Brussels carpet cut to pattern, of white ground and dark red figures. The water pitchers in various parts of the chamber are red, white and gilt china. Nothing seems out of place in this gorgeous chamber but four large stoves in the corners which send up to the walls about sixty feet of jointed stovepipe. A gallery in the end over the large entrance door of green baize accommodated about half a dozen lonesome negroes. The furniture for this State house charged above $00,000 on the people.

THE APPEARANCE OF THE CONVENTION

was in the highest degree respectable. I have attended for several years the renowned conventions of [illegible] at Worcester, where it is said the best yeomanry in America are brought together. The convention of the South Carolina conservatives was certainly not inferior, although much smaller. A very large proportion of very young men, most of whom had carried a musket, filled the front row. Among them was F. W. Dawson, the editor of the Charleston News, the most profitable legitimate newspaper enterprise in the South. Dawson is a rara avis even in a State of so many types of new settlers. A London boy just out of school, he read the English newspapers and imagined that the Southrons were the barons of Runnymede. So he ran away, ran the blockade and entered in the Confederate army, rose to be a captain, and was left in the burning city of Richmond at the close of the war with a foot wound and without either fortune or friends. He moved to Charleston in the course of time and became a reporter, took liberal ground in form of tolerance to the blacks, and has won respect and favor to that degree that he has been mentioned as a proper candidate for Governor of that State.

On a sofa at the side sat Col. Dunn, late of Massachusetts, the chairman of the Republican Bolting Convention, a heavy bearded, clean cut man, bred to the sea. In a part of the hall sat Gen. Kershaw, the leader of the Conservative party in the State, a small, hardy, round headed man, with grayish hair and blue eyes. He was one of the best soldiers of South Carolina, and is now a candidate for Congress, supported in great part by negroes.

Among the young men was A. G. McGrath, son of the Confederate Governor of the State, a refined young person, and beside him was one of that rare old type of South Carolina Hebrew Christians, yet of Jewish race, purely Jewish in name, perfectly Anglo-Saxon in features, Moses Nathans, long the head of the Charleston Fire Department.

Ex-Gov. Manning was one of the finest looking persons in the hall, with his notable aquiline nose and regularly corrugated forehead, yet scarcely aged, as if a ripple had blown over its transparency. His hair is a little gray, his mouth still with command, and his dark blue eyes, finely lashed, had something of the poesy of magistracy.

A member of the Legislature proposing to have a Sergeant-at-Arms, a large fat planter-like man, well-bearded, good naturedly rose and objected:

"We never had such an officer in South Carolina until it was recently brought in here. I like neither the officer nor the name."

The proposition was refused.

The convention was called to order by Mr. C. R. Miles, brother of W. Porcher Miles, formerly anti-Know-nothing member of Congress. Mr. Miles is a gentleman of large information and refined manners, a clerical looking person, quite particular in his enunciation and manners, and one of the best lawyers at the Charleston bar. He nominated to the chair Simpson Bobo, of Spartanburg, a large, bulbous-nosed, white-headed, genteel old gentleman, dressed in black, with a big stick. He presided with a complacency worthy of the Patrician times of the State. There was but one negro present. Ned Edwards (colored) was [illegible] as an alternate from Orangeburg in a somewhat informal way, he having been named by the real delegate, but not elected. Nevertheless the convention cordially voted him a seat, and Ned stalked in very respectably and took his seat by a young white confederate officer.

OLD TRUTHS NEWLY DISCOVERED

The other day the Evening Post informed the President that he had imposed upon the Republican party "a bad [illegible] alternative." This is explained to be suicide or his renomination—to destroy itself or be destroyed. This is very true, yet it is only within a short time that we have found it declared in the able columns of our neighbor. It adds, however, that the sacrifice the party will have to make will be compensated for by the lesson it will teach the country—"it will give President Grant," the Post says, "the unenviable distinction of being the first and last of our Chief Magistrates who has presumed to look upon a third term to lust after it." We think both sacrifice and the lesson would have been spared the party and the country had the danger been earlier admitted by the Post and other Republican papers of equal influence with its party. Again our contemporary says: "If President Grant, however, designs to make this New York election a Presidential instead of a gubernatorial election, he is pursuing just the course to accomplish his purpose. And we venture to predict that if he continues his present taciturn policy he will be satisfied with the result, but upon the principle that people are generally satisfied when they have got enough." Thus we learn that if the Republican party has no other way to get rid of Grant for a third term it will kill itself to effect his downfall, like a cruelly beaten horse which, driven to desperation, springs over a precipice with its rider.

These are the grave charges of a Republican journal to-day. Eighteen months ago, when the Herald uttered them, it was said they were but "moonshine," "midsummer madness," an insult to common sense. It is a pity, and we say it sincerely, that it has taken so long for the Republican press to discover that it was the truth we uttered. But it is hard for party journals to discover or to confess the covert plottings and even the unpatriotic aims of their political leaders.—N. Y. Herald, Oct. 25.

A NEW EPISCOPAL HIGH CHURCH ORGAN.—New York, October 30.—It is reported that a movement is on foot to establish an extreme High Church organ, with the view of supplanting the Church Journal, which the friends of Dr. Seymour and also the Ritualists declare to have been over active against them. The patrons of the new project are understood to be the Bishops of New York, Albany and New Jersey, and a large amount of money has been raised. Rev. John H. Hopkins, D. D., is to be editor.

CHARLIE ROSS AGAIN.—New York, October 30.—There is a strong suspicion among certain parties on Staten Island that a band of Gypsies who came to the island last week and are now encamped in Silver Lake woods have with them the missing Charlie Ross.

Latest Liverpool advices quote a quiet market. Pacific coast wheat ranged from 9s 10d@10s 4d for average and 10s 4d @ 10s 10d for club per cental. The London market is quoted at 41s 6d per quarter for average quality just shipped and 49s per quarter for average nearly due at Queenstown.

The general aspect of financial and trade matters in our city to-day is not one of a very active character. Business is doubtless somewhat retarded by the inclement weather, but even this can hardly be assigned as the only reason, a much more potent one being the low price which the products of the country bear in the usual markets of demand. Financially there is no such a thing as stringency at this time, the banks being still possessed of available funds, which are loaned to regular customers at the usual rates; merchants and general traders make less complaint of a scarcity of money than of small margins. The rapidity, however, with which the grain crop is being moved creates a steady and large demand, which nothing but a prudent management in financial circles would have prevented from bringing about an uncomfortable degree of closeness in monetary matters. So far this demand has met with a fair response, however, and the same prudence governing, we apprehend that all will get through the season without permanent embarrassment.

The Wool Market

As intimated by us last week, there seems to be a rather less encouraging outlook for this staple. One lot of 1,000 bales of choice northern sold in San Francisco last week at [illegible]c. A house in the trade in that city writes that "dealers continue to report extreme dullness in wool matters. The trade for the week has been considerable, but still not large when the increasing stock is considered. Buyers would no doubt purchase liberally at reduced prices, they claiming that Eastern currency rates at present will not justify anything like the high rates ruling heretofore throughout the fall. Commission merchants, though indicating a desire to sell, have not yet decided to accept such figures as operators offer. Prospects are that a considerable trade will be done within the next two weeks at somewhat reduced rates. Prices nominally 1[illegible] to 14c for burry grades and 14 to 16c for heavy and slightly burry; choice parcels 18 to 20c. The stock here is large, said to be 25,000 bales, mostly fall clip. It is stated there are now 7,000,000 pounds of wool in the various warehouses in San Francisco."

Wheat Shipments

[illegible] 18¾ bushels of wheat or its equivalent in flour had gone to sea from this port, according to the Astorian, from the beginning of the season to Nov. 3d. The value was $140,072.35. These were the shipments to Europe. The exports in the same direction during a corresponding period in 1873 were 307,253 bushels of wheat, or its equivalent in flour, and was valued at $408,471, being 103,2[illegible]0 bushels less in quantity last year than this, and only $31,601 less in value. The amount of flour last year, however, was 11,000 barrels against 2,718 barrels this year, which partly accounts for the great discrepancy between values and quantities.

Home Produce Market

WHEAT—This cereal is still coming to hand in large quantities, and all offers at current rates are freely taken by shippers. Many pretty large holders, however, are waiting for an advance, and over [illegible] bushels would have been bought to-day had buyers been willing to give $1 40 per cental, but the best figures for round lots were $1 37½, while by the car-load some purchases were made at $1 35, the current quotation for ordinary lots.

FLOUR—The continued depression in the price of wheat has naturally resulted in bringing the price of all grades of flour down to a low figure, and the accumulation of full supplies in this market. The best brands are now quotable at $4 50 ₰ bbl; outside country brands at $4@4 25; fine $3 25@3 50; superfine $3 50@3 75.

OATS—The supplies are full in this market, which has a downward tendency; fair to choice white in sacks being quotable at 38@40c per bushel; black, [illegible]@35c. The shipping demand in this as in many other products is dull.

BARLEY—Quotations of this cereal are steady at $1 25@1 35 for inferior, and $1 40@1 45 for choice bright ₰ 100 lbs, including sacks.

FEED—The receipts are adequate to the present dull demand and prices seem tending downward; bran being quotable at $12@13 per ton; shorts, $1[illegible]@15; middlings, chops, etc., $18@20. The home trade is fair, but shipments are slow.

HAY—The market is abundantly supplied. Jobbers pay about $10 ₰ ton delivered on the wharf for baled timothy; loose from wagons quotable at $9@10 ₰ ton.

POTATOES—The receipts of the week have been large and prices for any but choice varieties assorted are very low, ranging from 25@30c ₰ bushel; best, 37½@40c.

ONIONS—The market is in fair supply at $1@1 50 ₰ 100 lbs, according to quality.

APPLES AND PEARS—These fruits are coming in quite freely and prices rule very low, no buyer being willing to quote best varieties of apples in boxes at more than 50c, and pears 50c. Loose from wagons sell all the way from 25 to 40c ₰ bushel. Shipments are unimportant.

BACON—A fair lot of sides during the week sold at 15c ₰ lb, and choice could probably be placed at 16c, as the commodity is scarce. Hams are firm at 17@19c, and shoulders 12@13c.

LARD—Choice fresh in kegs or tins is quotable at 15@16c ₰ lb, with a fair demand.

BUTTER—The supply is fair in quantity and of rather better than average as to quality, though prices are not changed from former figures, rates depending entirely on quality and ranging from 25@30c ₰ lb.

CHEESE—There is no change; good State dairy quotable at 17@18c ₰ lb.

EGGS—The home trade is not more than supplied and jobbers' rates have advanced to 37½c ₰ dozen.

CHICKENS—Receipts are full and choice lots offering at $3 ₰ dozen; common and mixed $2 [illegible] 50. Sales are dull.

HIDES—Choice dry hides are in demand at 16c ₰ lb; green 7c. Damaged lots 10@25 ₰ cent. off.

WOOL—But few transactions noted; prices as to quality range from 18@24c ₰ lb.

BEEF CATTLE—Continued free arrivals are noted; best fat young steers in fair demand at 3¼@4c ₰ lb on foot; common 2½@3½c.

MUTTON SHEEP—We quote good lots at $2@2 50 ₰ head; choice $2 75.

DRESSED HOGS—The packing season will soon be at hand, and fair prices likely to rule for awhile. At present receipts are light. We quote at 6¼@7¼c ₰ lb.

Shipping Intelligence

The steamship Ajax on her recent trip brought a cargo of 450 tons of assorted merchandise. She will sail for San Francisco at 1 P. M. to-morrow.

The steamship John L. Stephens will leave San Francisco for this port at the usual hour next Saturday.

The bark St. Patrick, which began to load yesterday, has about 600 tons grain on board and will go down the river on Monday at farthest.

The bark Windermere, consigned to Rodgers, Meyer & Co., arrived this morning. She will discharge ballast and begin to load on Monday next.

The schooner Optima, from San Francisco, is discharging a cargo of merchandise at Flanders wharf.

The firm of R. C. Janion & Co. have secured a large vessel, name not given, which they will dispatch from Liverpool for this port direct or via Victoria some time in December with a cargo of merchandise.

The bark Hotspur, laden with grain for Liverpool, dropped down the river this afternoon in tow of the Emma Hayward.

The bark Agra is ready with her cargo to go down the river, only awaiting a tug and pilot.

The bark Clifton, a splendid vessel, was dispatched to his house in this city on the 3d of Sept. by R. C. Janion of Liverpool. The Clifton brings a cargo of merchandise.

The barks Sarah Scott and Lauretta crossed the bar outward bound on Friday of last week. The former cleared for Queenstown, the latter for Cork.

The barks Arbutus and Beulah went to sea on Monday last, destined for Queenstown.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words among not only one but many nations must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured so wide a reputation or maintained it so long as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It has been known to the public about forty years by a long continued series of marvellous cures that have won for it a confidence in its virtues never equalled by any other medicine. It still makes the most effectual cures of Coughs, Colds, Consumption, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed the Cherry Pectoral has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors to a great extent and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects that is well founded if the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords by its timely use in sudden attacks.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,
FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR
TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

Advancing years, sickness, care, disappointment, and hereditary predisposition, all turn the hair gray, and either of them incline it to shed prematurely.

Ayer's Hair Vigor, by long and extensive use, has proven that it stops the falling of the hair immediately, often renews the growth, and always surely restores its color when faded or gray. It stimulates the nutritive organs to healthy activity, and preserves both the hair and its beauty. Thus brashy, weak or sickly hair becomes glossy, pliable and strengthened; lost hair grows with lively expression; falling hair is checked and established; thin hair thickens, and faded or gray hair resume their original color. Its operation is sure and harmless. It cures dandruff, heals all humors, and keeps the scalp cool, clean and soft—under which conditions diseases of the scalp are impossible.

As a dressing for ladies' hair, the Vigor is praised for its grateful and agreeable perfume, and valued for the soft lustre and richness of tone it imparts.

EASTERN NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, Nov. [illegible]—Capt. Bradbury telegraphs [illegible] Europe that an opposition line of steamers between California and China in connection with Pa[illegible] railroads will begin to run regular in December.

Appointment of Indian Agent.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The President to-day appointed James L. Broaddus, of California, as Agent for the Indians at the Hoopa Valley Agency in that State.

The Alabama Legislature.

MONTGOMERY, Nov. [illegible]—The Legislature will stand [illegible] Democrats to forty Republicans.

Arkansas.

LITTLE ROCK, Nov. 5.—From incomplete official returns Democrats claim the election of their entire Congressional delegation.

Illinois.

CHICAGO, Nov. [illegible]—A special to the Evening Post [illegible] from Elgin, Illinois, says fuller returns [illegible] the election in the 4th district indicate Farns[illegible] election over Hurlburt by a small majority. The result of the Congressional contest in the [illegible] districts in this State will only be decided [illegible] the official canvass, which will be made to-morrow.

The [illegible] Journal to-day concedes [illegible] Farwell's election in [illegible] the 2d and claims [illegible] but it is impossible to get reliable returns [illegible] district, [illegible] from either. Candeld (Dem.) in the 1st has [illegible]—500 and 600 majority. [illegible] districts is as telegraphed last night.

ATCHISON, Nov. [illegible]—Returns from eighty two legislative districts elect [illegible] Republicans, ten Reformers, nine Democrats and two Independent Republicans on local issues. [illegible] districts not heard from fifteen will [illegible] of twenty [illegible] probably elect Republicans. This gives the Republicans about two thirds in the lower House.

Louisiana.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 5.—In the First Congressional District Gibson (Dem.) has a majority over Sypher [illegible] 1,500. In the Second District Ellis (Dem.) [illegible] majority over Dibble of about 2,000. In the [illegible] District additional returns indicate the election of Darrall (Rep.) by 5,000 majority. There is [illegible] nothing additional from the other districts.

Massachusetts.

BOSTON, Nov. [illegible]—There is a full Republican Council elected to advise and consult with Gov. Gaston.

Minnesota.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 5.—The Republicans claim the Legislature by 19 majority on joint ballot, which [illegible] be the same as last year.

Missouri.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 5.—Meagre returns show that the Democratic majority in the State will be from 30,000 [illegible]000. The Congressional delegation will be entirely Democratic.

New Jersey.

JERSEY CITY, Nov. 5.—Phelps (Rep.) for Congress [illegible] a majority of 17. This result is sustained by [illegible] counting for him all ballots bearing the name of W. Phelps and Wm. Walter Phelps, of which there [illegible] 22.

Pennsylvania.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 5.—The Evening Telegraph [illegible] the Democratic State ticket is pretty certainly elected. Gen. McCandless undoubtedly defeats [illegible] Beath for Secretary of internal affairs. Judge [illegible] Republican candidate for Lieut. CHAPLAIN VAN HORN

VANCOUVER, W. T., Nov. 5, 1874.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I see by the papers that Chaplain Van Horn is to be the next lecturer in Museum Hall, Nov. 10, 1874. It is well known to all who are acquainted with the Chaplain that he is one of the finest if not the best lecturer on the Pacific coast—a classical scholar, an elegant and eloquent speaker, ripe in age and experience, tall of stature and very slender, with high forehead and expressive eyes. If he does not draw a full house in Portland November 10th it will be no fault of his or his lecture. I heartily recommend him to all, and hope you will give him the large audience that he justly deserves. Yours truly,

S. D. MAXON.

THE DEATH OF GLOSTER.—The fast trotting horse Gloster, eight years old, by Volunteer, owned by Alden Goldsmith of New York, expired in this city yesterday noon. His death was caused by an affection of the lungs. A post mortem examination was made, and both of them were found to be diseased. They had evidently been so for some time. Gloster was buried at the track of the Bay District Fair Ground Association. He has been on the turf two seasons and has established a wonderful reputation for speed and [illegible]. He trotted in Rochester in August last four wonderful heats. The first was a dead heat in 2:18, the second he won in 2:17½, the third in 2:17, and the fourth and last heat in [illegible]:19. The doctor says that Gloster was liable to drop dead in any race which he has been engaged of late. About two years since he was afflicted with a fistula in the shoulder, and they think that this may possibly have had something to do with his subsequent sickness and death. Mr. Goldsmith was offered $30,000 for Gloster, but refused it, during the season.—S. F. Chronicle, Oct. 31.

A POLITICAL MEETING IN GEN. BANKS' DISTRICT.—Boston, Oct. [illegible].—There was a lively time at a Gooch rally in Waltham, the home of Gen. Banks, Saturday evening. Collector Slack, of the Internal Revenue Department, and Gen. James A. Hall, of Maine, were the speakers. The meeting, which was composed of about 300 persons, was shamefully disorderly. [illegible] were freely given for Gaston and Gooch, and hisses for Talbot and prohibition. Banks was also hissed vigorously, while Banks was vehemently cheered. Gen. Hall's reception was disgracefully rough, and his retorts, while not lacking in Saxon strength, were questionable in point of taste. Altogether the meeting was the most turbulent of the campaign.
